some governments may slaughter tens of thousands people who is opposite to the country's policies. Also, enemy's weapon such as missiles may hurt the innocent civics and their properties, making them homeless.

If I'm a world leader, I think I will call for everybody to stay calm, think twice before any actions and negotiate with the enemys. I believed that, wars can't solve conflicts, controversially, it will broaden the gap between countries or even opposite groups, just like the situation during the cold war. More importantly, wars do harm to the innocent citizens, even the governments claim they only attack those military facilities. As a result, I will release some positive and kindness news to the country, and promote talks, negotiates and enact peace rules. However, if they break the rules and attack us, we should prioritize the civil's safety, and try to take response to the attack, using precise and effective ways → to minimize the impact on innocent people and maximize the destruction of the military facilities of course, this is the worst situation.

As a whole, I think every country should strictly follow the rules between countries and countries, and hold annual talks to prevent serious conflicts. By doing so, the civilization of human can develop more prosperous and peaceful in the future.
